

Budget Debate Over

Two Non-Confidence Moves Are Defeated in Parliament

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—(CP)—Two motions of non-confidence in the government were defeated by substantial margins in the Commons last night as opposition parties split their vote because of disagreement over the wording of the motions, moved as a result of what was contained in the last federal budget.

By a vote of 141-47, the Commons defeated a Progressive Conservative motion which criticized the government for failing to plan effectively for full production and employment, for failing to provide for the elimination of extravagant expenses and for failing to provide adequate income tax relief for low salaried workers.

A CCF sub-amendment to the motion was defeated by 162-75. The sub-amendment went further than the Progressive Conservative motion and called for the nationalization of industries to help provide full production and employment.

BOTH THE AMENDMENT AND sub-amendment were based on a government motion to go into committee on ways and means to pay the reductions brought down in the budget last Oct. 12. The main motion was adopted on division without a recorded vote.

M. J. Colwell, CCF leader, said that night his party would support the Progressive Conservative motion if it had not been for its speech leading to its amendment.

The speech was made by Mr. Macdonald, CCF—St. Catharines, financial critic, for the official opposition and only member of this party to speak in the now concluded budget debate.

Mr. Colwell turned Mr. Macdonald's speech as a plea for the wealthy and privileged groups and individuals in the country.

The CCF and the Social Credit parties joined with the government against the Progressive Conservative motion on the vote, John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, was not in the house for either vote. The Progressive Conservative and the Social Credit parties joined with the government in defeating the CCF sub-amendment.

THE SUB-AMENDMENT, moved Tuesday night by Mr. Colwell, expressed regret that the government had not progressed as effectively full-employment plan which would ensure the employment of the full credit in terms of public need to make possible a large-scale investment program, the public reconstruction of war industries for peace-time needs, the public development of new industries, of scientific research and of our natural resources.

It also regretted that no satisfactory policy had been advanced for the elimination of extravagant expenditures and no program outlined for the expansion of essential expenditures for social security and purchasing power needs.

SIMILAR REGRET was expressed by the Progressive Conservative motion which urged that corporations and high income earners rather than those in the lower income brackets.

The sub-amendment disposed of the House immediately began division and the Progressive Conservative motion of want-of-confidence.

BEFORE THE DIVISION, William Irvine (CCF, Carleton Place) said that the government's budget was being drawn up in a hurry and that it was not a one-year period as has been the custom.

At last night, Mr. Irvine said budgets covering five-year periods would be better. He said the government should carry out what it planned to do during its five-year term of office.

THE GOVERNMENT planned to set in only where private enterprise failed. He felt long-term budgets would be a better way to deal with the government's financial position.

Must Raise Quality

Warns Canadians Might Lose Great Britain Bacon Market

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—(CP)—Two former members of the Commons stated yesterday that Canada will lose her bacon market in the United Kingdom unless the Dominion improves the quality of her product and agrees to accept many British products in exchange.

MARK SENN (PC, Hamilton) and William Irvine (CCF, Shelburne) made the statements at the house debate with a variety of agricultural topics during continued study of agriculture estimates.

At the night sessions, the Commons debated two motions of non-confidence in the government as the formal budget debate was concluded and the study of budget resolutions began in committee of the whole.

The house defeated a Progressive Conservative motion by a vote of 141-47. A CCF sub-amendment to the motion was defeated by 162-75.

MR. SENN said sufficient work was being done in the agricultural estimates for the British markets despite the fact that Canada had lost contracts with the United Kingdom which ran until the end of next year.

Mr. Irvine said Denmark would secure Canada out of the British food market unless she was willing to take many British products in exchange. While Denmark was moving ahead in the dairy products market, Argentina would have an edge on cattle exports because of low production costs there.

AGRICULTURE Minister Gardiner said that there was the "real need for co-operation between the federal and provincial departments of agriculture."

WESTERN FARMERS could not have their needs in the United States at cheaper prices, nor could they sell their products in the United States where cattle and grain prices were a good deal higher than those paid in Canadian markets.

The government was committed to a policy of free trade and yet it had done nothing to stimulate free trade. Tariffs were imposed in the United States, he said, and it was time these industries grew up and stood on their own feet.

DISCRIMINATORY freight rates in the west were preventing development of that part of the country. The rates meant industry in the west was handicapped from the beginning in competition with industry in central Canada.

MR. GARDINER admitted that scientists were not paid sufficiently in the government service. Scientists in the agriculture department were paid to find new ways for production and to keep agriculture profitable. He was going to fight as hard as he could to obtain more money for the scientists.

Everyone would be paid on the basis of merit and experience. He felt no special consideration should be shown to a man simply on the basis of a university degree.

McGeer Urges Better Chance Canadian Youth

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—(CP)—Senator G. G. McGeer (Liberal, Columbia) called in the Senate yesterday for greater accommodation for the youth of Canada as a means of ending off the delinquency that leads to crime.

HE WAS INTRODUCING an Act to amend the Penitentiary Act of 1935. It has passed the Commons. Canada, he said, would do well to recognize the heavy burden her present system of crime prevention places upon provincial and municipal governments. There was not a city in Canada that was not overwhelmed by taxation, not a large city that was satisfied with the accommodation provided for its children.

"THE TOMORROWS must be made better for our youth," he warned, in supporting one of the recommendations of the Archambault Royal Commission which proposed the Canadian penitentiary system just before the war.

THE TRAGEDY in which these youths recently killed an Ottawa detective grew in part out of the capital's lack of sufficient accommodation for the training and recreation of young people.

He said statistics showed an increase in crime after the war. In 1935 all Canadian penal institutions had admitted 7,500 persons as compared to 65,000 in 1943. Comparative figures for those years for penitentiaries were 3,800 and 2,800 and the latest figures available showed them creeping up again to around 2,800.

BUT WHILE INMATE totals had dropped between 1935 and 1943 total cost of maintenance, administration and operation of penal institutions had gone up by $807,000.

One purpose of the bill was to appoint one of three members of the penitentiary commission set up in 1939 before the other two members died. It might study the recommendations of the Archambault commission and advise the justice minister.

HE READ A LENGTHY list of advances that have been made in penitentiaries since then but some major reforms remained to be introduced.

The bill would also allow appointment of commissioners "during pleasure" instead of for 10 years and bring them into the ranks of the Civil Service Superintendents.

Senator John T. Hall, Progressive Conservative, said the bill should be taken on the Archambault report, NOMA HALLS, of recent meetings and sent to the banking and commerce committee for detailed consideration.

He also gave a major sugar industry definition of the bill's purpose of protection of the maple sugar industry and its customers.

"Strike" Meaning Didn't Floor This Speaker

At Wednesday night's sitting of the Alberta Farmers' Union convention, Jack Rhoades, a director of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, said he was a definition of "strike" in language whose simplicity could have made old Nova Scotia envious.

Heckled by a delegate from the government service, as to whether he (Mr. Rhoades) thought the commercial organizations which will be brought into the new organization, if amalgamation is brought about, will be in sympathy with the Federation of the farmers' "strike" and "They are members as such as they are of the commercial organizations."

Delegate "You're evading the question. Are you yourself in favor of strike action?"

Mr. Rhoades: "You seem to be bound to put me on a spot. I don't know what you mean by 'strike action,' but it should be easy to settle differences amicably and you will get what you want if you bring enough pressure."

Delegate: "But if we don't?"

Mr. Rhoades: "How could you carry out a strike?"

Delegate: "By staying at home. Are you in favor of strike action?"

Mr. Rhoades: "I couldn't get enough for my sheep. I keep them out there because a better market."

Delegate: "Why didn't you carry out a strike?"

Mr. Rhoades: "How could you carry out a strike?"

The ROAD AHEAD

By Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

EVERY one often I receive in my mail letters either containing some brochure, or describing some "system" which, according to the writer, if substituted for our present "capitalistic" system would solve all the problems facing mankind today. To all those people who believe in "systems" as a solution to our many problems, I would like to suggest that even the most perfect of systems will not work until we have cured the many ills which corrupt individuals.

THIS IS NOT INTENDED to be a defense of the capitalistic system, it is intended to be a condemnation of any of the very many other systems which people put their faith and use as a basis for their belief in the possibility of a better world. It is intended merely to make people think a little realistically about the problems which face us.

To my mind, when men attempt to compare the capitalistic system with other systems, they compare the realities of capitalism with all the abuses which have arisen under it, with the theoretical perfection which they deem to be possible under the system of their choice. They do not take into consideration the opportunities of abuse, or the incentives to greed, which may be inherent in the system of their particular choice. I suggest that to get a fair comparison between any two "theoretical" systems, we should consider not only the possibilities of abuse, but the possibilities of freedom.

BASICALLY, THE CAPITALISTIC system is based on the desire for material gain, or the desire for power, or the desire for status, or the desire for something which has value to the members of the community in which he is a part. Theoretically, an individual, operating under capitalism, will be paid in accordance with his ability to produce something which has value to the members of the community in which he is a part. Theoretically, an individual, operating under capitalism, will be paid in accordance with his ability to produce something which has value to the members of the community in which he is a part.

University Plans No "Bouncing" This Christmas

Retained men and women at the University of Alberta turned out in large numbers for the Canadian University Returned Men's Association meeting which was held in the modern building Tuesday afternoon. In the absence of President Ken Crockett, the vice-president, Wilford Borch, presided.

John Borch, president of the university, was read, informing veterans students that there will be no "bouncing" at Christmas. This was a popular campus management policy for those who had poor marks in the Christmas exams would be asked to leave. The wartime boys who did not come up to standard at that time were obliged to go into the service.

Beltsch was awarded the prize for designing a suitable and distinctive CURMA button. The executive committee has also given the good news that once post-grads would take place on the campus this Friday.

STUDENTS WHO STILL HAVE been dealing with the overwhelming amount of work in the CURMA office is expected to be the choice for this position. It is a disability for a veteran.

A CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN OUT to write their government representatives in Ottawa, and present to them facts of the critical housing situation. By such a flood of letters it is hoped the issue will be forced upon the attention of the House of Commons.

Marvel Lambert presented a report on prospects for university students. A committee is planning to cut employment for university students during the summer months. A resolution was made that CURMA affiliate with the Canadian League of Women Voters, and in every way, CURMA would, however, remain as a special branch maintaining its independence. Such a plan would benefit student veterans immeasurably.

AT NEXT CURMA MEETING results of a survey will be discussed by kind of accommodation. The survey was arranged across Canada to determine whether the allowance for servicemen students is adequate to meet the cost-of-living. It is felt that with the increased cost of living, the amount is not sufficient for a man and wife to live on.

Power Production Power production for the Edmonton power plant for the period Jan. 3 to Nov. 25, 1944 totaled 10,725,000 kilowatt hours compared with 10,262,000 for the same period last year, an increase of 2,462,000.
